Christine Lawson,

Vice President of Claims, West Region Area Manager
Risk Control and Claim Advocacy Practice

Relevant Experience/Specialization

Christine Lawson is an Area Practice Leader and is responsible for the supervision and management of claims functions in our Phoenix and Denver offices. The Claim Management team acts as liaison between our clients and the insurance companies in the handling and disposition of open claims and can assist in a claims consulting capacity.

Prior to joining Willis Towers Watson in 2011, Christine Lawson was an Assistant Vice President for AIG Claims Services; Senior Claims Manager for US Airways; and Claims Manager for US Foodservice/Alliant Foodservice. With more than 30 years' experience in the insurance industry, she has extensive Risk Management background having worked on the Risk Management side as well as Insurance/Third Party Administrator (multistate) side of the industry.

Christine's background on the insurance carrier, third party administration, and employer's side of the industry contribute to her success servicing clients from her current position with an insurance broker. Her client base covers many business sectors including, but not limited to, transportation, airlines, manufacturing, public entities, construction, healthcare, mining, retail and food service.

Role at Willis Towers Watson

Responsible for the team supervision and management of claims functions.

Education and Credentials

Bachelors of Science, Business Administration; University of Denver, Denver, Colorado.